Villa, the rebel leader, claims that Wm. S. Benton, the English subject murdered last Tuesday, entered his camp armed and threatened his life and that Benton was seized, disarmed, tried by court martial and executed as an "armed prowler," a legal proceeding under the rules of war. Benton's friends deny this in toto. They say that Benton went to see Villa, unarmed, as he did not own a pistol, to protest against depredations on his ranch, and did so so vehemently that Villa engaged in a quarrel with him and finally either shot him in person or ordered him taken out and shot. The story of a court martial is not believed. Upon Great Britain's demand, Secretary Bryan has ordered a rigid investigation.

CREAMERY SURE THING

Large Attendance at Farmers' Meeting on Last Saturday.

ENOUGH COWS ARE PLEDGED.

Plant to Be Put In and Business To Begin By April 1st.

The final meeting of the farmers in regard to establishing a creamery here was held in the rooms of the H. B. M. A. last Saturday afternoon. As Mr. S. L. Cowherd was unable to attend, Geoffrey Morgan presided.

There was a large attendance and three of the Fox brothers were present. After Mr. Morgan stated the object of the meeting, he made a call for more pledges of cows and about 35 were added to the list, besides others that were named who had cows which would be used for supplying the creamery.

Mr. Mike Fox then described in detail the manner in which the product of the farmers' cows would be received and the prices to be paid. His talk was very interesting and he satisfactorily answered many questions propounded by the farmers.

At the conclusion of his remarks, he told the farmers to go home and get ready to begin delivering milk and cream by the first day of April. He said that the Peter Fox Sons Co. would at once begin the erection of an up-to-the-minute plant and they would be ready to begin receiving their products on the day named.

The company is going to put up a building and install a plant that will take care of the product of 2,000 cows. Though they will begin business with the number of cows pledged, they expect the number will rapidly increase—bound to do it when the farmers begin to realize that they can make their cows bring them in $150 per year each, which will be done.

Mr. Fox urged those present and farmers generally to go into poultry raising more extensively than ever, and agreed to pay them the highest prices for every fryer and broiler that was brought to them.

He very emphatically called upon the farmers to at once begin raising guinea fowls, which are less trouble than other fowls and are worth more money, as the game laws of every State are so stringent now that a quail or pheasant can never find its way into the cities, and the most pretentious hotels and high class restaurants are now serving guinea fowls for game birds of almost every kind.

To encourage the farmers in raising these fowls he said that the company would furnish everyone with eggs free of charge who would embark in this new feature of farm life. In five minutes fourteen farmers called for 100 each and they will be furnished as promptly as possible—early enough for spring settings.

The creamery, it is generally believed, will be one of the best things that has been put over by the H. B. M. A. for some time. The idea was first mentioned to Secretary Bleich by a cashier of one of the local banks and Mr. Bleich saw the wisdom of it and got busy and laid it before the Association. The Association caught on and the farmer caught on and finally the Fox Bros. saw the opportunity and the creamery is a certainty.

False Alarm.

The fire department was called to the home of Will Hester, on South Campbell street, Sunday night a few minutes before 7 o'clock. The department made a quick run, but there was no reason for the alarm being turned on, as there was no fire, only a flue burning out.

OBJECTION TO DELAY

Secretary Bleich Appeals To The I. C. Officials For Prompt Arrivals.

Upon the complaint of the traveling public, Secretary Bleich, of the H. B. M. A. has taken up with the officials of the I. C. Railroad the habitual tardiness of the passenger train due to arrive here at 6:45 p. m. in reaching the station. It is said to be the custom of the conductor to delay arrival until cars are switched and water taken, out at the "Y," which usually takes 15 to 30 minutes. Sunday night it is said the train did not detrain its passengers until after 7 o'clock. When the train arrives at 6:45 there is an 8-minute connection with the L. & N. northbound train at 6:53, but this cannot be made if there is not a prompt arrival. A delay of 15 to 30 minutes at the dinner hour is often very annoying and a great many complaints have been made to Secretary Bleich. It is believed that an order will be made for the trains to arrive on time and do the switching afterwards.

Compromise Effective.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 20.—Mayor John Bushmeyer signed the compromise ordinance which will end the warfare between the city of Louisville and the Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph company. The terms of the compromise are that the Cumberland company shall pay all court costs, amounting to $40,000, and refund $137,000 to patrons for overcharges made in defiance to the Grinstead ordinance on the legality of which the long litigation was based. A large portion of the refund will be donated by subscribers to form the nucleus of a fund to build a public auditorium.

MR. HOXSEY'S VIEWS GIVEN

Authorized Statement From The Head of The Christian-Todd Telephone Co.

AVERSE TO LITIGATION

He Declares that Rates Now Proposed Have Practically Bankrupted two Co's.

Vice President J. M. B. Hoxsey, of the Christian-Todd Telephone Co., has given out the following interview concerning the action of the fiscal court Friday in ordering the sale of a county franchise.

"Our representatives have attended several meetings of the committee which formulated this franchise, and on this occasion have been in almost constant consultation with them for the last four days. We regret very earnestly that the committee did not see fit to accept the proposition which we made to them."

"As a matter of fact, while the committee met us in a most amicable spirit, and were considerate enough to withdraw some provisions in their original draft, which would have worked a great hardship upon us, which fact we duly appreciate, nevertheless, the final franchise as passed Friday imposes upon the Company purchasing same, a number of very burdensome restrictions and obligations. It would lower the rates of a great majority of the country telephones, and the rates prescribed for country telephones, with the exception of a ten per cent mileage charge beyond the five mile limit, which we believe we can show is entirely inadequate, are the lowest rates in force by any company during the days when there were several opposition companies in the field."

"The committee appears to us, to have lost sight of the fact that these rates formerly in force carried with them the privilege of service with less than one-half of the subscribers in Christian county; whereas the Christian-Todd Telephone company is giving connection to all subscribers who can be reached by telephone in Christian county. These rates, as I am informed, practically bankrupted two of the telephone companies formerly giving service in Christian county, and there is no reason that I know of to believe that we can give over twice as much service for the same rate as they did, without meeting the same fate."

"We were very anxious to avoid litigation in this matter and to that end offered to the committee a compromise without prejudice to our legal rights, which compromise, had they accepted it, would have insured service to the people of Christian county for at least three years, for some $10,000 to $15,000 a year less than the rates which we believe we can show to be fair and just. While this is a heavy price to pay, we were willing to pay it for the sake of avoiding litigation with our patrons. We distinctly preferred, if allowed to do so, to live in peace and amity in Christian county, rather than to air our differences in the courts."

"The most difficult feature of the committee's action for us to understand is that refusing us the necessary time to place before them information which seems to us necessary in order that a fair conclusion might be arrived at, inasmuch as the committee declined to accept our statements, based on our general knowledge and experience of the business. It was impossible for us to foresee that the committee would not accept these statements, and impossible for us to foresee just what direction their request for information would take, and I am satisfied that had they granted this request there would have been no

DISEASE IS MYSTERIOUS

That is Carrying Off The Hogs At The State Hospital—Not Pneumonia.

Steward W. J. Chiles, of the Western State Hospital, says the disease that is carrying off the hogs at the institution is not pneumonia. The hogs were treated with cholera serum and are not dying of cholera. They get sick and live or three weeks, gradually growing weaker, when they die. The disease is not understood and Dr. Mumma, the expert, who inspected the hogs recently, with Mr. Morgan, said he did not know what the trouble was.

The hogs are kept in a stock barn with a concrete floor but it is well supplied with straw beds, wind shields and other facilities for making the hogs warm and comfortable in the severest weather. They have not been exposed in any way to cause pneumonia, Mr. Chiles says, and the disease that has killed about one-third of the herd is still causing the hogs to die and he is anxious to find out what it is.

ON KIRKMANVILLE ROAD.

King Log Drag Is Started To Work With Good Results.

F. B. McCown, John M. Rice and other farmers living on the Kirkmanville road, near the Todd county line, started up a King Log Drag Saturday morning and finding the road in good condition for its use did fine work on a considerable section of the road. They are enthusiastic over the results that can be accomplished in improving the highways at small expense. The number of these drags is continually increasing in all parts of the county.

Weather Not a Bar.

The work of putting in position the large steel material for the floor of the postoffice was begun Thursday last. Weather is hardly a bar to any work for the contractors. When the weather does allow one kind of work they put on a force at something else, and it is probable that the contractors will be able to carry out their determination to complete the building by Thanksgiving Day.

difficulty in arriving at a ground of common agreement. With all these facts before us, and with the fair disposition manifested on the part of the committee, I am sure that we would either have agreed with them, or they would have agreed with us, and inasmuch as we offered to give bond if such delay were granted to the effect that any rates which went into effect finally, should be retroactive, to January 1st, 1914, and that any charges over the rates finally adopted would be refunded to the subscribers from January 1st, to 1914, within thirty days after such rates should have been finally adopted, we do not see that anything could have been lost to the people of the county by granting us this delay.

"While I feel that the committee was not sufficiently informed in recommending the franchise, which they did, I wish to express my appreciation of the fairness of the committee from their point of view, with the information before them, and I feel that any injustice which the franchise recommended gives to us was of intentional on their part."

"If, as I fear, we are forced into litigation as a result of the offer for sale of their franchise, I trust our patrons will feel that we are not fighting them but we are merely trying to find out in an amicable spirit just what our rights are."

CURCUIT COURT BEGINS

Grand and Petit Juries Selected, Grand Jury Charged.

VERY LARGE DOCKET.

Charge to Jury Was Most Impressive and Duty Defined.

Circuit Judge Hanbery opened a six weeks' term of his court yesterday, with the largest docket during his term of office. The judge took the bench at 9 o'clock and called the common law appearance docket. Many cases were set for trial during the fourth week of the term, some were continued and others passed. After this the court proceeded to the selection of the grand jury and 24 petit jurors. This being done the court proceeded to deliver a most impressive charge to the grand jury. The court impressed upon the jury their duty, under their oaths to make most diligent search into many cases of violation of law in the county, running through the calendar from top to bottom.

There are 65 commonwealth cases on the docket and these will commence, according to the arrangement of the docket, the first week or more of the term. There are 49 continued common law cases, 61 new common law cases and 93 cases on the equity docket.

At one o'clock the case of the Commonwealth vs. Clinton Pitzer, indicted for carrying concealed a deadly weapon, was taken up for trial. After hearing the evidence the case was given to the jury without argument and in about five minutes they rendered a verdict of not guilty.

The next case called was the Commonwealth vs. Nathaniel Wootton, indicted for shooting and wounding in sudden heat and passion. The trial began at 2:05. There are quite a number of witnesses on each side and the remainder of the afternoon was taken up in hearing the evidence.

The juries were empanelled as follows:

GRAND—E. T. Stegar, Foreman, Sam Wright, F. B. Wagner, John T. East, A. E. P. Pool, J. J. Sherrill, Lon Tensley, W. L. Caudle, Q. F. Combs, James Rogers, O. M. Wilson, and J. D. Capps.

PETIT—P. C. Craws, C. A. Carter, J. E. Payne, W. T. Hopper, A. C. Joiner, Howard Brame, A. E. Word, Basil Roberts, S. H. King, D. J. McCord, J. H. Murphey, J. T. Stegar, J. E. King, O. H. Milton, C. R. Bouldin, J. F. Taylor, Walter Goode, W. S. Harned, Jouett Adams, H. T. Mays, B. P. Eubanks, H. H. Lindsey, George Bradley, and J. M. Miller.

AMATEURS SCORE SUCCESS

Charming Presentation of "A Rival By Request."

The presentation of the play "A Rival By Request," by High school pupils Friday night was a big success.

The play was a funny farce comedy, with many ludicrous incidents, and something happening all the time. The characters were assumed by Thomas Underwood, Jack Tandy, Wm. McCarroll, Macon Abbott, Jim Moss and Edward Moseley and by Misses Brenda Neblett, Florine Rives, Elizabeth Lackey, Virginia Pursley and Lucy Wilson.

The play was coached by Miss Virginia Williamson and the young people, without exception, met every requirement of their parts. Where all did so well, it is impossible to particularize.

pher. "I don't quite see how the adage applies to current conditions," commented the man with a practical mind.

Woman's Reason.
Women have more of what is termed good sense than men. They cannot reason wrong, for they do not reason at all. They have fewer pretensions, are less implicated in theories, and judge of objects more from their immediate and involuntary impression on the mind, and therefore more truly and naturally.—Hazlitt.

FEEDING ROUGHAGE TO STOCK

Great Danger of Animals Overloading and Seriously Impairing Their Digestive Systems.

An oversupply of roughage in racks or mangers means not only a waste of feed, but there is greater danger of the animals overloading and seriously impairing their digestive systems.

It takes more feed for stock out in the open weather than in shelter, since they must consume a sufficient quantity to maintain normal flesh and keep up the heat unnecessary for supplying their bodies with warmth.

Oftimes it is so loosening in its effect that it is very easy to overfeed on this ration. While we would feed only about one-fourth pint for every one hundred pounds the animal weighs, there are cases in which this would be too much while in others it would be sufficient. When feeding it, watch the results closely and gauge your future feeding by them.

Don't get too enthusiastic in feeding oilmeal, as it is a concentrated ration.
One and a half to two pounds will be sufficient for the dairy cows, along with other rations daily. Hogs will require an amount in proportion to their size, and horses will need it only occasionally—twice or three times a week—as a sort of change from the bulkier feeds.

The proportion of live to dead weight in cattle and sheep varies according to the way in which the animals are fattened. It is not often that a fat beast kills over 72 per cent.

A Good Feed Rack.

of its live weight, only show beasts may be reckoned to do that. The primest may kill to 72 per cent. when cake-finished. A good average is 68 per cent. Mutton sheep newly shorn will kill about 3 per cent. more than cattle.

If any single mistake in winter calf raising could be designated as the greatest, it is that of allowing the little fellows to run with the grown stock where they are bunted about, cheated of their share of feed and made to stand in the most uncomfortable parts of the sheds or barns.

THE NEW SPOON.

Jane is a worker-by-the-day, but she educated her daughter, hoping eventually to be the mother of a public-school teacher. Instead the daughter, an attractive young thing, promptly got herself married and went west to live. The elder Jane, proud to be a grandmother, immediately invested several days' earnings in a silver spoon and by return mail she received a note of thanks therefor.

"This, I hope, will be the nucleus spoon of a large collection," the young mother wrote.

Jane puzzled over this a time and then, selecting that one of her patronesses whom she considered most up-to-date, she put this question:

"Mrs. Blank," she said, "you know all about silver. Now, what is Forgotten Musicians.

Few but those who have studied musical history know that the name John Bull was borne by one of the most famous musicians of the sixteenth century. He was as famous a harpsichord player in his day as Liszt was a pianist, but as a composer he lacked the creative power of Liszt, the result being that Bull is practically unknown to the general public today, even in England.

WIT and HUMOR

MORE THAN HE COULD STAND

What Befell a Committee Man for Having Ungrateful Educated Daughter.

"If they's one thing I can't abide, it's them naggin' women," wound up the village oracle, after having disposed of the woman suffrage question while the evening mail was being distributed. "You all know my eldest daughter, Pauline, is a regular high speed talker since she got her high school education complete over to the city. She's got an idea she knows everything a woman ought to know, and then some, and don't hesitate to give it out that away."

"Why, this very afternoon she got on one o' them naggin' streaks and had the gall to tell me right to my face that my English ain't no good! And me a committee man and hiring o' teachers in this very school district for more'n 20 years! I been about sick ever since."—New York Sun.

Literary.

Mr. Ives has a mind that delights in facts. One evening he laid down the paper, was silent for a moment, and then said:

"That's odd." "What's odd?" asked Mrs. Ives. "Why, here is a man who says that it would take 12,000,000 years to pump the sea dry at the rate of a thousand gallons a second."

Mrs. Ives sat thinking the matter over. Finally she said:

"Why, Henry, where would they put all the water?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Well Timed.

Pastor Ryder was a very prosy speaker, and one Sunday morning, when the services were over and the congregation was dispersing, Deacon Bosworth, who was a great admirer of the pastor, met a friend at the door and said:

"A fine sermon this morning. So well timed, too."

"Yes," replied the other man, "it was certainly well timed. Nearly half the congregation had their watches out."

His Den.

"When Billinger bought his new house it was with the express understanding that he should have a room all of his own—a den or study."

"Yes, I know what you mean. Did he get it?"

"He got it and his wife furnished it."

"How?"

"With a sewing machine, a cutting table, two dressers, dummies, three sewing chairs and a full-length mirror."

Students and Riots.

"You say that demonstration was a students' riot?"

"Yes," replied the Mexican guide. "You see it is necessary to get up a demonstration now and then in order to impress certain political ideas. It is by being paid for rioting that our students secure enough to enable them to pursue their studies."

PA'S IDEA OF IT.

"What is society, pa?" "Society, my son, is something that requires as much money to get into as it does brains to keep out of."

No Wonder.

"You are always talking about the high cost of living." "Well, that's about all I hear at home."

"From your wife?" "No, from my wife's father. We are living with him, you know."

Taking Chances.

"He has a motor car on the land, a motor boat on the water and an aeroplane in the air."

"What do you suppose embittered him so?"

"What do you mean?"

"He doesn't seem to want to live."

Villa, the rebel leader at Juarez, Mexico, has probably overstepped himself in the murder of Wm. S. Benton, a British subject, arrested and shot as a spy without giving him an opportunity to appeal to his government for fair play. Benton was a wealthy land owner who complained to Villa of depredations on his property. He was arrested and kept for a short while in solitary confinement and executed before his wife could get his case before the American consul. It will be shown that Benton was in Mexico on legitimate business and the rebels will have a hard time giving a satisfactory explanation. Villa has put himself in the same class with Castillo.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH CURE. Send for circulars free.

OVER THE WIRES

By J. MORTON LEWIS.

There were people who prophesied the marriage would turn out a failure—there are always such. In this instance it seemed their prognostications would prove correct.

For a few months their life together had been idyllic, then gradually they had commenced to drift apart.

As a speaker Graveling was brilliant. Men spoke of him in the house as one of the most promising members. Some even hinted that he would hold office before he was forty.

As a man he felt disappointed; he had hoped that his wife would have helped him in his career. It piqued him that she felt no absorbing interest in the political question of the day. So they had gradually drifted.

It was a time of great moment in parliament, when for once the usual topics were swept aside, while another greater question, one which threatened the very life of the country, engaged the attention of the house.

Graveling felt instinctively that perhaps his moment had come. Not a few had foretold a great career for him. Every hour of the day and night that he was not in the house he spent studying the vital question. It was then that he missed his wife as he pictured she should have been.

Mrs. Graveling had gone out. He did not know where, since she had not told him, and pride would not let him ask. He was alone in his study poring over a blue book. Suddenly the telephone bell rang. "Hello," he said.

"Are you Mr. Graveling?"

"Yes."

"You are busy?"

"I am rather. Who are you?"

"I shall not tell you my name. I am an admirer of yours who has been following your work in parliament very closely lately."

"Yes," Mr. Graveling was mystified. The voice was essentially feminine.

"It was very kind of you," murmured Mr. Graveling.

"Now," continued the voice, "you won't mind what I'm going to say, but I think you've missed the point a little."

Before Mr. Graveling could say a word she had launched into a lengthy dissertation regarding the vital question. At first he felt angry. His dignity was hurt, but gradually as she proceeded he felt himself listening interestedly.

Suddenly she stopped. "Goodby."

Before he could make a reply she had rung off.

Mr. Graveling sat back in his chair. The blue book lay before him neglected. He was thinking what the unknown voice had said to him. Her few words had opened up a trend of thought. "Who in the devil can it be?" he said.

It was late when Mrs. Graveling returned. She found him in his study busy writing some notes for next day's speech.

"Did you enjoy yourself?" he asked laconically.

"Very much indeed, thanks," Mrs. Graveling stifled a yawn. "Still busy at your work?"

"Yes," Mr. Graveling could not help comparing the two women.

"Well, I shall go up to bed. Good night."

For a couple of days Mr. Graveling was busy at the house. The opportunity was given to him to make a speech, and he used the arguments which had been given to him over the telephone.

The next day Mr. Graveling read with pleasure the criticisms which were passed upon his speech by the papers.

That evening found him busy in his study. At nine o'clock the telephone bell rang.

"Hello!" said Mr. Graveling.

"Good evening," said the voice.

Instantly he recognized it. "I am glad you made use of our little chat the other night. I haven't rung up before because I knew you would be at the house, but I wanted to have another chat with you."

"Not more than I have—I have wanted to thank you."

"Really—I am so glad."

"Are you?" Mr. Graveling felt the reply to be fatuous. "Why?"

"Because one likes to help those one admires."

"I say," began Mr. Graveling, but she had rung off.

Mr. Graveling hung up the receiver with a future of annoyance and "I only wish Grace took as much interest in my work," he said.

The next evening at nine o'clock found him waiting for the bell to ring, anxiously looking at it as the moments passed by.

When it rang he seized the receiver.

"I've been waiting for you," said Mr. Graveling.

"Are you," the voice hesitated, "are you trying for a place in the cabinet?"

Mr. Graveling hesitated, wondering how she guessed. It was the great ambition of his life.

"Perhaps. Some day. It is what we all hope, isn't it?"

"You will. Before long, too. I know you will, and I should love to see you there. Promise me you'll try."

"I promise," said Graveling gravely. He would have promised almost anything to the unknown voice.

Another three weeks had passed—three weeks of strenuous fighting in the house. Each evening that he was at home Graveling waited for the voice over the telephone. As nine o'clock drew near he found himself looking at the instrument impatiently, wondering when the bell would ring.

"So you have been asked to make a speech," said the voice. "When is it to be?"

"I shall be put on on Thursday. I am busy preparing it now."

"Well, there is still one point you have missed—I delayed telling you until you had a big speech to make. You have omitted to mention the great tie it will be between England and the colonies."

"I have got it down in my notes," said Graveling triumphantly.

"That's good," the voice paused.

"There is one thing I want to ask you," said Graveling, "who are you?"

"That I shall not tell you," said the voice.

"May I see you?"

"No; certainly not. It wouldn't be right for us to meet," said the voice.

"But we must. I want to see you—to see who you are—what you are like."

"Isn't that a man? He is never satisfied with what he has but wants more. It would spoil all the charm if we met face to face. I could not speak to you as freely as I can over the 'phone. No, I cannot see you. Good night."

A few minutes later the idea came to him. He rang up the exchange.

"I was through to a call box a few minutes ago. Could you tell me the number?"

"Yes, it was Mayfair 46784."

"Is that the number that has been ringing me up lately?"

"Yes."

"Thanks," said Graveling. "Can you tell me where it is?"

The girl gave him the address. It was not half a mile from where he lived.

The next evening he left his house a few minutes before nine and drove in a taxi to the address the exchange had given him. The box stood in a block of flats. It was occupied by some one.

He saw that it was a lady speaking. Standing in the shadow of the doorway he watched her. Though the box was dark and he could not see distinctly, yet there was something familiar about the figure. Her face was hidden behind a thick veil.

As she came out he stepped toward her. She gave a quick start. The recognition was mutual.

"You, Grace?" he exclaimed.

"Yes," she answered. She looked up into his face. "Don't you understand?"

"No," said Graveling.

"I knew I was losing you. You thought I took no interest in your work, that I was too commonplace, too simple to follow you in your career. Perhaps it was my own fault. I lost you, but I would have no man's love unless I could have it all, so I sought to win you back my own way. I studied politics and then—"

"And then?" said Graveling in a soft voice. It was the voice of a man to whom understanding has come.

"I rang you up and chatted to you over the telephone, and because you thought I was some one else you took my advice, even putting into your speeches what I suggested."

"Because it was good," said Graveling.

"You do not mind the way I took?" She had come closer and looked up into his face.

"Mind?" Graveling bent down and kissed her. "My dear, we have been drifting apart. Tonight has brought Wholesale Parole Begins.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 20.—State Parole Agent Henry Cox met with 250 convicts in the chapel of the reformatory last night to discuss their paroles. These are the men who are entitled to go out as soon as they are provided with employment and he will have to find work for the others.

Chairman O'Sullivan, of the Prison Commission, said the men will be paroled as fast as they can be provided with employment.

SEGREGATION ORDINANCE.

The race segregation ordinance pending in Louisville, differs from measures previously introduced. The first section provides that a colored person cannot live on any city block in which the greater number of residents are white, and no place of assembly may be maintained by colored people there. The next section provides that a white person cannot reside on a block on which the majority of residents are colored.

It is also provided that the person building the first house on a vacant city block shall state whether it is intended as a habitation for white or colored persons. Notices must be published by the building inspector and posted near the lot where the house is to be built. Unless protest is made by those owning 50 per cent. or more of the frontage of the block concerned within five days the permit will be granted, and the block is thereby devoted to white or colored residents, according to the declaration.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Shepherd of the Hills" will be presented at Holland's Opera House Feb. 24, (tonight.)

The story has to do with the father of an artist, who, tired of city life, goes into the Ozarks for peace and quietude. He learns of a grievous sin committed by his son, whom he mourns as dead. The son had visited the hills some years before, when he fell in love with a simple country girl. He painted her picture and when he went back to the city, deserting the girl, he earned fame because of the canvas. The girl, deserted and broken-hearted, dies leaving behind her a half-witted son.

It is to the home of this dead and wronged girl that the father of the artist comes, and here he is employed to watch the sheep. He grows to love the country and its people, and he and the half-witted boy, Pete, become friends. Then there is a love story running through the play that adds to its attractiveness.

JUDGE HENSON ON 'AGGRESSIVE

Opens Campaign For Congress By Speech at Morganfield March 2.

HE INVITES HIS OPPONENT.

Other Appointments Made And Division of Time Offered.

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 21.—As will appear from the letter addressed to Hon. D. H. Kincheloe, published below, Judge J. W. Henson, of this city, assumes the aggressive in the congressional race and will formally open his campaign for the Democratic nomination by a public speech to be delivered at Morganfield, Monday, March 2, to be followed by other speaking appointments in different parts of the district.

Judge Henson extends to his opponent an invitation to be present at all these appointments and offers him a fair division of time.

It appears that the congressional race is now made up between Judge Henson and Mr. Kincheloe. There is yet some talk to the effect that Hon. John C. Duffy, of Christian county, has the matter under consideration, however.

Judge Henson's letter:
Henderson, Ky., Feb. 19, 1914.
Hon. D. H. Kincheloe, Madisonville, Kentucky.

My Dear Sir:—
I am going to make a speech at Morganfield in the interest of my race for congress, on the afternoon of Monday, March 2nd., that being the first day of court at that place. I will also speak at ~~Morganfield~~ Gap on Saturday night, March 7th; also at Sebree in the afternoon on Saturday, March 14th; also in Sturgis at night, on Saturday, March 21st; also in Corydon in the afternoon on Saturday, March 28th; also at Dixon in the afternoon, on April 6th.

I most cordially invite you to be present and if you desire to also speak, I will accord you a fair division of time. I expect to make other appointments between some of those dates, but owing to my work in court, I cannot say just now when or where they will be, but I will determine them as soon as I can arrange my docket at Morganfield, and will notify you. As you will probably not be hampered, but I will be somewhat, by my work in court, I hope when you go to make a list or lists of appointments to speak during the campaign, you will first consult me so we could, if possible, arrange for joint meetings, if you desire to have them.

Without further invitation you are at liberty to attend any speaking appointments I may have, and a fair division of time will be granted you, and I will ask that you extend to me the same favor. While these dates are a little early, I feel compelled to commence earlier than I otherwise would, owing to the fact that I will be engaged a portion of time in court.

With kindest regards, I am,
Yours truly,
J. W. HENSON.

Mr. Kincheloe Accepts.
Madisonville, Ky., Feb. 21, 1914.
Judge J. W. Henson,
Henderson, Ky.,

My Dear Sir:
Upon my return home I received yours of the 19th inst., informing me that you were going to make speeches in the Congressional race at Morganfield, Monday afternoon, March 2d; Morton's Gap, Saturday night, March 7; Sebree, Saturday afternoon, March 14; Sturgis, Saturday night, March 21; Corydon, Saturday afternoon, March 28; and at Dixon in the afternoon of April 6th, and inviting me to be present and offering a fair division of time.

I know of nothing that will give me more pleasure than to be present, not only at all of these appointments, but at any other you may make during the campaign and meet you in joint debate. Am very much gratified that you say you will accord me a fair division of time. I am sure you will adhere to the custom of al-

COUNCIL HOLDS BRIEF SESSION

Pool Room Ordinance Was Called Up And Passed.

The Council met in regular session Friday night.

The City School Board did not appear as expected to ask for an $80,000 bond issue to refund the 1910 bonds, having learned that such an issue could not be voted on until November. J. O. Cook, H. A. Keach, A. D. Noe, a committee from the H. C. M. A. appeared and asked that when the school bond election is held an issue of $100,000 for street improvements be included. No action was taken.

An ordinance was passed forbidding boys under 21 from loafing in pool rooms, without the written consent of their parents, or unless they have legitimate business. The penalty is a fine of $5 to $20.

Mayor Yost reported that he had paid out $154 in emergency warrants and $200 more was appropriated for the emergency fund.

"Woodard's alley" again bobbed up with the regular annual complaint and Councilmen Buckner and Gee were named as a committee to have it cleaned up and if possible concreted. It is the alley between 6th and 7th streets, half a block east of Main street.

No action was taken on the matter of building a lavatory at the police office, to be used as an operating room when needed for that purpose.

Forest Notes.

Minnesota has a forested area of 28 million acres, the largest of any state east of the Rocky Mountains.

There are approximately four million acres of timber land in New Hampshire of which about half is in farmers' woodlots.

Forest fires in the United States have caused an average annual loss of 70 human lives and the destruction of 25 million dollars worth of timber.

Juniper from the Indian reservations of New Mexico and Arizona may prove an excellent source of material for lead pencils. Manufacturers are searching the world for pencil woods.

Canada has established a forest products laboratory in connection with McGill University at Montreal, on the lines of the United States institution of the same sort at the University of Wisconsin.

Tree planting in national forests has to be confined to comparatively short intervals in spring and fall. In spring it starts when the snow melts and stops with the drying out of the ground; in the fall it comes between the fall rains and first snowfall.

During 1913 the forces on the national forests fought 4,520 fires, or nearly twice as many as started in 1912, the best year the forests have ever had.

In Other Cities.

Dallas, Tex., last year expended $350,000 in paving.

Pasadena's water department last year netted profits of $23,970.

Hamilton, Mass., may be compelled by health authorities to abolish wells.

Beaver Dam, Wis., has bought its water system, paying a private corporation $113,000.

Akron, O., Council is always opened with prayer by J. W. Walker, its president, who prohibits smoking during business sessions.

Mrs. McClure Better.

Mrs. James McClure, who has been quite ill with pleurisy for three weeks was somewhat better yesterday.

ure in granting you the same favor at all the appointments I shall make.

I will be glad to consult you when I make my list, or lists, of appointments and will make them to suit your convenience as much as possible, consistent with the vigorous campaign I shall way. So you are most cordially invited to attend any and all speaking appointments I may make, and a fair division of time and every courtesy will be granted you

If You are Subject to Colds This Editorial will Interest You.

A Great Majority of People Get One or More Colds Every Season and It is of Vital Interest to All to Learn How to Avoid and Relieve Colds Quickly, Since Colds are Said to be Contagious.

Some people think colds are only caught through exposure. This in return is contradicted by the fact that Arctic explorers are peculiarly free from colds. It is more generally accepted that colds are the result of civilized life, due to super-heated rooms and a very rapid change in temperature which causes the nerve centers to be depressed, and still more largely due to contagion—one member of a family imparting a cold to another by sneezing or coughing.

A cold means nothing if relieved quickly. That such a purpose may be accomplished, a quick aid to a cold is an essential. A remedy especially devised to relieve colds quickly is PERUNA.

PERUNA contains such ingredients that have an especially beneficial influence upon the inflamed mucous membranes and the quicker these mucous membranes are given the benefit of a remedy like PERUNA, the quicker the relief and the less contagion.

A neglected cold may become a serious menace to one's own life, and far worse, may endanger one's family.

We insure our homes against fire, our lives against death. Why should we not insure ourselves against colds if possible by having a medicine in the family chest that can be used at once?

PERUNA is a reliable household remedy for colds and should be in every home, for there should be a desire to combat a cold as quickly as possible. This is enlightened hygiene.

People who are feeble and run down are more subject to colds than persons in normal health. Such persons need outdoor life and PERUNA to help build up a strong constitution. If you have a poor appetite that is often a warning that you probably need a tonic like Peruna for Peruna aids the digestive organs. When your appetite is fair and work and exercise do not quickly tire you, your susceptibility to colds diminishes very much.

Persons who object to liquid medicines can now obtain PERUNA TABLETS.

WASTE OF HUMAN MATERIAL

Writer Calls Attention to the Necessity for Movement for Conservation of Children.

Twenty-five per cent. of the deaths occurring in Chicago for the week ended December 6 were of children under ten years of age. That is not an abnormal proportion. It is a proportion far too high, however. More than one-sixth were of children under one year—a tragic infant mortality. Preventable diseases were responsible for by far the larger number.

Not long ago the American Association for the Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality held its fourth annual meeting in Washington. About three hundred people attended. When the fifth national conservation congress was in session it attracted from three to four times as many interested auditors. It was discussing the saving of trees and soil.

Both were conservation congresses, but that directly concerned with conserving human life weighed least in human interest. We have yet to develop the vision that will lift the baby to a like importance with forests, minerals and water courses. The nation that wastes its human raw material, if the child may be so called, is guilty of a criminal indifference to its own welfare, both social and economic.—Chicago Post.

THEY WERE LET ALONE

Uptowne—Well, as I don't want them together, I'll have to let them alone, too.

ISLAND OF TENEDOS.

Tenedos, which certain powers have taken away from Greece, has become well known by name from having the good luck to get mentioned in the first book of Homer's "Iliad" instead of the last, as well as in the beginning of Virgil's "Aeneid." Ever since Homer's day this fertile islet lying at the entrance to the Dardanelles has been considered of great strategic importance. During classical times the laws and civil institutions of Tenedos were celebrated for their wisdom, and were discussed with approval in a lost treatise of Aristotle.

WASTED A SUMMER'S WORK

Combination of Small Boy and Goat Made Much Trouble for Great Sculptor.

Among other stories in the charming "Reminiscences of Augustus Saint Gaudens" by father and son is a confession by the son. When he was a boy in Cornish, he had a pet goat, which he had trained to play a butting game. The goat would butt, Homer would dodge, and then, to his great glee, the goat would butt the wrong thing or the air. One day at dinner time, when the studio barn was deserted, Homer was playing this game. Beyond the open barn door stood the wax model of the Logan horse, "waiting to be cast in plaster." This time, when Homer dodged, the goat butted the back of the horse. But since it did not fall or break, the relieved child thought it wasn't hurt, and didn't tell. Before anyone noticed that "the rear of the animal was strangely askew," the horse had been cast in plaster and the enlargement begun. This meant the loss of a whole summer's work—just one more of the accidents and errors that increased the "toughness of the sculptor's life."—From "More Than Conquerors: The Magic Touch," by Ariadne Gilbert, in St. Nicholas.

HAD COACHMAN IN CORNER

Old Gentleman's Neat Solution of Question Which Affected His Household Arrangements.

A dispute had long existed in a gentleman's family between the cook and the coachman, about bringing the cream from the farm for breakfast. Their master one morning called them both before him that he might hear what they had to say. The cook pleaded that the coachman was lounging about the kitchen the best part of the morning, yet he was so ill-natured that he would not fetch the cream for her, though he saw she had not a moment to spare. The coachman said it was not his business.

"Very well," said the master, "but what do you call your business?"

"To take care of the horses and clean, and drive the carriage," replied the coachman.

"You say right," answered the master, "and I do not expect you to do more than that for which I pay you; but this I insist upon—that every morning before breakfast you get the carriage ready and drive the cook to the farmer's for cream; and I hope that you will allow that to be part of your business."—London Tit-Bits.

NEW 100-STORY BUILDING.

Hundred-story buildings are not only possible but probable, according to Henry W. Hodge, consulting engineer. He points out that recent advances in design have called for great improvement in the quality of building materials. The modern trend is from plain steel to its alloys—nickel, vanadium and other metals—which have been found to increase strength in greater proportion than cost.—Engineering Record

GOOD MANAGEMENT OF POULTRY ON FARMS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
On almost any farm there can be fitted up, with very little, if any, cost for new material, a poultry house that will answer all the purposes of more expensive buildings for keeping poultry, states the department of agriculture, farmers' bulletin
No. 562. The essentials to success in housing are fresh air, sunshine, a dry floor and a building that is free from drafts. In constructing a poul-

Plan of an Inexpensive Poultry House.

try house it is advisable to allow 2 1/2 to 4 square feet of floor space per bird.

The accompanying cut is a plan for a poultry house 10x14 feet in size for not more than 50 hens, which can be constructed at an expense of about $20 for material. This house has one-half of the front open, and is adapted for southern conditions, but in localities where much snow or rain is apt to blow into the house or where the winters are severe it is advisable to insert a curtain of hurlap or thin muslin which can be closed in cold weather. If the ground is damp, it will be necessary to add a board floor; otherwise a dirt floor elevated a few inches above the ground level will be satisfactory. If desired, a cement floor of cheap and simple construction may be laid; such a floor is a good protection against rats. The plan shows a 6-inch shutter on the back just under the eaves, which is recommended for use in the south. This must be constructed so that it can be closed to prevent any draft on the hens in cold weather. The house should face toward the south. The eaves may be placed directly under the dropping boards or on the walls of the house rather than on the floor. The materials required for building the house shown in the cut are as follows:

Two pieces 4 by 4 inches by 10
feet, for sills.

Two pieces 4 by 4 inches by 14
feet, for sills.

Two pieces 2 by 4 inches by 10 feet,
for plates.

Two pieces 2 by 4 inches by 14 feet,
for plates.

Sixteen pieces 2 by 4 inches by 12 feet, for studs, rafters, and roasts.

Feeding Little Chicks—Frame Used to Protect Feed of Young From Older Fowls—in Use at United States Experimental Farm, Beltsville, Md.

One hundred and twenty square feet of boards 12 feet long for ends.

Fifty-six square feet of boards for back.

Eighty-four square feet of hoards for front and dropping boards.

One hundred and fifty square feet
of hoards for roof.

Two hundred and twelve lineal feet of 2 by 1/2-inch battens.

Total scantling, 226 feet b. m.

Total hoards, 622 feet h. m.

Total lumber, 850 feet h. m.

Two pairs hinges.

One hundred and fifty square feet
roofing paper.

Nails.

Fifty-six square feet poultry wire, 2-inch mesh.

Poultry netting, 3/4-inch mesh, can be used in localities where sparrows are troublesome.

The foregoing plans for housing are merely suggestive, and any plan that conforms generally to the essentials laid down will be sufficient.

The selection of stock is a matter of considerable importance, as a great deal of one's success or failure with poultry depends upon the individual specimens used to breed from. Care should be taken to select the early maturing, fast-growing pullets. Hens will not, as a rule, lay until they are well matured; consequently it can be readily seen that the slow-growing breeds will not begin to lay as soon as the former. A good index to a hen's ability to pay a profit over the cost of feed and labor is her ability to be continually on the move. It is advisable to keep but one breed of pure-bred fowls, as the product from a flock of the same variety is more uniform than that from a flock of mixed breeds or mongrel stock. It is advised that all pullets to be used as layers the following winter shall be hatched by April 15, and certainly not later than May 1 of the preceding spring.

It takes a healthy, well-fed flock to produce eggs. Fowls must not be allowed to become too fat, as but few eggs will be laid by hens in such condition. To prevent their getting over-fat, it is best to make them work for most of their feed by scratching in the litter, of which there should be about four inches on the floor. This litter can be of straw, leaves or chaff, and should always be kept dry.

A good feed for egg production is one composed of corn, wheat and oats, equal parts by measure. It is advisable to use home-grown grains whenever possible. In sections where corn and oats do not thrive, other grains can be used to good advantage, for example, a mixture of equal parts by measure of kafir corn, oats and barley will produce good results.
Scatter a small handful of this mixture for every three hens in the litter morning and noon, and give them all they will eat of it in a V-shaped trough at night. In the winter time some green feed should be fed at noon; cabbage or mangel-wurzels, either chopped or whole, are good.
Every few days look in the litter carefully and see if the fowls are eating all the grain being given them;
if not, reduce the quantity. Fowls that have to work for what feed they get seldom become over-fat. Grit and oyster shells in a hopper should always be kept before them. The grit is used to grind their feed, and the oyster shell furnishes the lime for the eggshells. Be sure to keep water before them at all times. Birds that

TELEPHONE FRANCHISE

all Text of The Franchise To
By Offered For Sale On March 3rd.

The conditions of the franchise to be sold by the Fiscal Court are a matter of such general interest that we give the full text below:

February 20th, 1914.

It is hereby ordered by the Fiscal Court of Christian County, Kentucky, that a franchise to erect, maintain and operate telephone lines, poles, cables and fixtures and wires along and across the public roads, highways and bridges of the County, and the right of way thereof, be sold by this Court, at public outcry, to the highest and best bidder, for a period of twenty years from and after the date of the confirmation hereof.

The person, firm or corporation which shall become the purchaser of this franchise, or any successor or assignee of such purchaser shall, for brevity, be hereinafter referred to as the "Company," and the individual patron of the service shall, for brevity, be hereinafter referred to as the "Subscriber."

The company becoming the owner of this franchise and after the sale thereof, shall have been confirmed by order of this court, shall have granted to it a franchise giving to it, its successors, assigns or lessees, the following privileges and imposing upon it, or its successor, assigns or lessees, the following rights and all of the restrictions and regulations herein contained, not in conflict with the laws of this State now in force.

1. That there is hereby created and established a franchise or privilege, to erect, operate and maintain a system of telephone lines, poles, wires, cables and fixtures along and across the public roads, highways, turnpikes and bridges of this County, subject to the jurisdiction of this Court.

2. This franchise, or privilege, shall continue for a period of twenty years from the date of confirmation hereof.

3. The company owning this franchise or privilege, may assign, or transfer, same.

4. Said lines, wires, cables, poles and fixtures shall be erected and maintained in a workmanlike manner; and said poles shall be located outside of the valleys, or ditches, so as not to interfere with public travel and traffic on the said public roads, highways and turnpikes, nor with the maintenance, repairs, reconstruction, or drainage of same, or the entrance to any private property.

5. The company shall properly repair any damage that may be done to any of said roads, highways, or turnpikes, or bridges, or to the valleys or ditches along same, in the erection, construction or maintenance of said lines, wires, cables, poles, or fixtures; and shall keep said valleys and ditches free from obstruction by its poles, wires and fixtures, or from limbs, brush, or trash, cut from trees or other growth, along said roads or right of ways thereof; and shall have the right to trim and keep trimmed, bushes, shrubbery, limbs of trees and other obstruction, twenty inches from the wires that may be erected from time to time.

6. If the company shall fail to use this franchise, or privilege, or shall fail to erect or maintain a system of telephone wires, lines, cables, poles or fixtures, or shall knowingly and wilfully violate the terms, conditions, instructions and regulations herein contained, this court may, after giving reasonable notice in writing, specifying such failure, and if such violation or failure, is not remedied, or corrected, in a reasonable time, revoke this privilege, or franchise.

7. This franchise, or privilege, shall not give to the company any exclusive franchise, or privilege.

8. That the company shall not charge, collect or receive, except as hereinafter provided, for the rental of the telephones within the limits of Christian County, and outside of incorporated towns in which it owns a franchise, exceeding the following rates, viz:

For business, office, or residence, single or special line telephones beyond the city limits, but within one and one-half miles of any central office, or within one and one-half miles of any exchange, a rate not to exceed $2.00 per month for each residential dence telephone, and not to exceed $3.50 per month for each business telephone, and $3.00 per month for each office telephone.

For business, office, or residence, single or special line telephones beyond one and one-half miles from any central office, the same rate as above specified for like telephone service, within a one and one-half mile radius of the central office, plus a mileage charge of 50c per month for each mile or fraction thereof, of pole line mileage, in excess of one and one-half miles from the central office.

For residence service with two, or more, parties on the line, beyond the city limits, but within five miles of any central office, the rate charged shall not exceed $1.50 per month for each subscriber; and for residence service with two, or more, parties on the line beyond five miles from any exchange, a rate not to exceed $1.50 per month for each subscriber, plus an extra mileage charge of 10c per month for each mile of pole line mileage, or fraction thereof, in excess of five miles from the exchange, or central office.

For business, or office, service with two, or more, parties on the line, the rate charged shall not exceed $2.50 per month for each subscriber within five miles of any exchange of the company, to which may be added an extra mileage charge of 10c per month for each mile of pole line mileage, or fraction thereof, in excess of five miles from the exchange, or central office.

Mileage for each subscriber shall be computed only to the location of his telephone, or to the point of connection of his line with the party line serving other subscribers, in case he owns his own line.

Either the subscriber, or the company, may elect that the subscriber shall be connected with the nearest exchange. In the event that the subscriber so elects and the company is unable to so connect him, the company shall not compute, or charge, a greater mileage than the mileage to the nearest exchange by the nearest public road.

Said company shall also offer to any association owning, operating and maintaining its own switchboard not located within the limits of any municipality where said company owns and operates an exchange, and maintaining its own trunk lines between the switchboard owned and operated by such association and a point of connection one and a half pole line miles from any central office of the company, a rate not to exceed $7.00 per month for each trunk line so connected, provided, that such association, or its individual members, own and maintain their own lines and station instruments connecting with their own switchboard.

Said company shall offer to associations, or individuals, owning and maintaining their own lines, equipment and stations to a point of connection one and a half pole line miles from any central office, service at the following rates: For each subscriber on any such line, containing as many as six stations, a rate not to exceed 25c per month; and a rate not to exceed 50c per month where each said line contains less than six stations. The company may require the subscribers on such lines to appoint one of their number to act for them as treasurer, against whom all accounts shall be rendered, and said treasurer may apportion the charges made by the company among said subscribers in such manner as may be agreeable to themselves. The subscribers shall have the right to place as many stations as they like on such lines.

The rates charged by said company during the life of this franchise, shall at all times, be reasonable and fair, the condition and circumstances under which the service furnished by said company is rendered being taken into consideration, and to that end, after a period of three (3) years from the date of the confirmation of the sale of this franchise, the rates charged by the said company shall be subject to revision in the following manner: Said Fiscal Court may adopt a resolution citing said company to appear before it, or said company may file with the said Fiscal Court a petition for a revision of said rates and charges. In either event, a schedule of rates and charges which shall be fair and reasonable under the conditions and circumstances as they may then exist, shall be adopted by the said Fiscal Court, and become the legal rates to be charged by said company.

9. In the case of residence service, not more than five telephones shall be placed by the company on any party line; and where there is a business, or office telephone on any party line, not more than four telephones shall be placed on that party line, except in either event with the consent in writing of the already existing subscribers upon said line.

10. The above rates shall entitle all subscribers under this franchise to service without additional charge on all lines, or exchanges, owned, leased or operated or maintained, by the purchaser of this franchise, its successors or assigns, within the limits of Christian County, and on and over all other lines with which the purchaser of this franchise may have contracts for the free transmission of messages or interchange of service within this county.

11. All telephones put in, or operated under this franchise, shall be long distance metallic circuit telephones, and shall be kept in workable condition, except for unavoidable cause. If any telephone shall be left by the company so that it cannot be used for more than twenty-four successive hours after notice has been given to the company verbally, or by telephone, and confirmed in writing addressed to the company at its Hopkinsville, Kentucky, exchange, no charge shall be made, or collected from the subscriber for the time in excess of twenty-four hours that such telephone was out of use.

12. No subscriber who enters into a contract with the telephone company for service at the rates specified in this franchise, shall be required to furnish poles, except over his own land, or land leased by him, to the public road, or highway, unless said subscriber shall voluntarily avail himself of the rates charged by the company for those subscribers who own their own lines and equipment, provided, however, that said company shall not be required to build additional pole lines over five miles in length, unless as many subscribers contract for stations and service from the company on said additional construction as will yield the company at least the sum of $15.00 per

13. The company shall operate and maintain exchanges in Christian County, except for unavoidable cause, at the following places: Pembroke, Gracey, Edgerton, Lafayette, Crofton, and shall not remove, or discontinue, the said exchanges, except with the approval, and by the consent, of the Fiscal Court of Christian County; and the company shall operate and maintain an adequate number of trunk lines between its central office, at Hopkinsville, Ky., and the various smaller county exchanges, which it may own; and it shall maintain at least one trunk line, or circuit, for each one hundred subscribers, or major fraction thereof, on said smaller exchanges.

14. Under the terms of this franchise the company shall be required to furnish telephone service to any person residing outside of the incorporated towns in Christian County, so desiring it, and at rates, or charges, not in excess of those herein specified, and said company shall furnish such service without discrimination, except that it may, in the exercise of reasonable discretion, grant free telephone service to any officer, attorney, or employee of the company; provided, however, that upon application for service requiring additional plant construction from persons as to whose credit, or responsibility, the company is not satisfactorily assured, the company may require satisfactory bond, or guarantee, for two years rental.

15. That within ten days after the approval of this order this court shall, by and through the clerk of this court, who is hereby appointed a committee for said purpose, advertise this franchise, or privilege, for sale, by posting written, or printed, copies of this order, constituting this franchise, or privilege, in at least three public places, in the City of Hopkinsville, Kentucky, or by advertising same in some newspaper of general circulation, in said city once a day for ten consecutive days; that bids will be received at public outcry for said privilege, or franchise, at the front door of the courthouse in the City of Hopkinsville, Ky., at 11 o'clock a. m. on Tuesday, March 3rd, 1914. And the Clerk, according to said advertisement, shall offer and receive bids and report same to this court at the next meeting to be held on the said March 3rd, 1914, and immediately after securing same; and this court shall award same to the highest and best bidder, but this court reserves the right to reject any and all bids made at the sale of this franchise.

The bidder to whom the franchise, or privilege, shall be awarded, shall pay the amount of such bid in cash, or by duly certified check, payable to the order of the Sheriff of Christian County, before this bid shall be accepted by this court.

And it is further ordered that the minimum price for which this franchise shall be sold is an amount equal to the amount of costs of advertising same, which minimum price will be stated by the clerk before, or at the time of receiving said bids, and he will report the amount of same, with a full report of his acts, to this court, as heretofore ordered.

Big Round-Up.

The police were busy Saturday afternoon and night. Altogether 14 arrests were made and slated for almost every offense. Several of them were for plain drunks, one for carrying a concealed weapon and two or three for disturbing the peace. This was the biggest bunch of offenders for several months. The most serious charge was furnishing a minor with whisky.
